

ABSTRACT

Devices, softwares and methods enable SIP devices to operate in H.323
5 networks, and devices, softwares and methods enable H.323 devices to operate in SIP networks. Messages that initiate communication from a first protocol are translated into the appropriate messages of the second, responded to, and the replies are translated back into the first. Routing by the legacy network is thus seamlessly exploited.

10

20060101 09:00:00